

Privacy Policy for arXiv Paper PDF Renamer

Last Updated: April 9, 2025

Overview

arXiv Paper PDF Renamer is a Chrome extension that automatically renames PDF files downloaded from arXiv.org to match their paper titles. This privacy policy explains how the extension handles data.

Data Collection and Usage

The arXiv Paper PDF Renamer extension:

- Does not collect personal information of any kind
- Does not transmit any data to external servers
- Only processes website content (paper titles and IDs) from arXiv.org
- Only stores data locally on your device to facilitate the renaming process
- Automatically discards all data when you close your browser

Permissions Used

The extension requires the following permissions for its operation:

- downloads: To intercept download events and rename PDF files
- storage: To temporarily store paper titles and IDs locally on your device
- host permission (arxiv.org): To access page content on arXiv.org to extract paper titles

These permissions are used solely for the purpose of renaming downloaded PDF files.

Data Sharing

The arXiv Paper PDF Renamer:

- Does not share any data with third parties
- Does not use any analytics or tracking tools
- Does not use any remote code or external services
